this book is concerned with critically analysing the importance of the status of knowledge in establishing truth about female defendants convicted of murder during the 20th century while the abolition of the death penalty in the uk has insured that the impact of this knowledge is no longer one of life and death modern cases such as that of sally clark whose guilty verdict was eventually overturned nevertheless demonstrate the devastating impact that those with the power to define the truth still have on the lives of individuals who are unable to construct a dominant truth of their own during their trials using the key themes of truth gender and power the book also focuses on agency and rationality in relation to female criminality masculinity and miscarriages of justice challenging official discourse which historically has incorporated entrenched constructions of women who kill as mad bad or tragic victims this book argues for the creation of new subject positions and alternative discourses within which female violence can be understood at the end of world war ii over 20 000 french people accused of collaboration with germany endured a particularly humiliating act of revenge their heads were shaved in public nearly all those punished were women this episode in french history continues to provoke shame and unease and as a result has never been the subject of a thorough examination this groundbreaking book by fabrice virgili throws new light on these acts of retribution and reveals that contrary to popular belief a vast number of those women accused were innocent of any sexual involvement with germans further this form of punishment was in evidence well before the liberation and in fact occurred in most european countries both in the twentieth century and earlier why were these punishments largely directed at women was a relationship with a german emblematic of female collaboration and betrayal or were contemporary feelings of violence towards the enemy subsequently re directed answering these questions and many more virgili suggests that the punishment was not only meted out for horizontal collaboration but also for many other forms of involvement and that the act of shaving the head was itself a form of sexual punishment for virgili the public nature of the punishment was a defence strategy a response to the german occupation and a reaction to the suffering and violence that had preceded the liberation this pioneering investigation of one of france s darkest moments will be fascinating reading for anyone interested in world war ii french history or women s studies
